

Hon. W. Jasper Talbert is a little rough in his manners. A great many Congressmen are more polished, but with all that Talbert puts in some good common sense licks every now and then. We have just been reading one of his speeches on the bill to appropriate money for the postoffice department.

It seems that Representative Mann, of Illinois, "made an appeal, almost with tears in his eyes," "to raise the salaries of the letter carriers in the large cities and towns." Now Jasper understands the place hunter. He well knows how anxious thousands of people are to become employees of the United States, so he says the employees "hold on eternally, still crying for more pay, never satisfied like unto the horse leech." His language is not always the most elegant, but that his point is good. Whoever heard of an employee of Uncle Sam's resigning?

Another good point. "Why, it seems to me there is nobody upon the floor here," he says, "except the representatives of the tax consumers, and they push their claims earnestly." Some truth in this, there is a great deal of truth in it. It is well known that most of the time of a Congressman is spent in trying to get a position for somebody or a claim through Congress for somebody.

We hope that the Hon. Jasper Talbert will succeed in his effort to accomplish his want. "I want to find," he says, "some men who will stand up here and represent the men who follow the plow down in the cotton rows and the cornfields of the South." Of course, Jasp may have expected some of the "plow boys" to see it, but it is a fact that they have had very little representation in Congress. The man who follows the "plow down in the cotton rows and the cornfields of the South" has never had his fingers in the treasury, but has had to plow to keep enough money in the treasury to fill the pockets of others. The oil kings, the ship builders and the office seekers have been well represented, but the man in the cotton row has been neglected. May the Hon. Jasper Talbert find his man.

"You are all standing to-day, it seems to me, upon the side of the skinner, and I want to see somebody say something in the interest of the skinned!" Mr. Talbert told his fellow Congressmen, and instead of taking it seriously they greeted the remark with laughter and applause. Congress may yet find out that he is in dead earnest.

For pity sake is this Schley-Sampson controversy to be renewed. The Augusta Chronicle has this to say:

A stirring story is getting into print in regard to Rear Admiral Sampson. In connection with this statement, it is said that Admiral Winslow Scott Schley's friends have threatened President McKinley's friends in order to have the Maryland man outrank Admiral Sampson and have come out victorious. Another part of the story is that the most bitter personal feud in the nation's history, therefore ends and that Schley will rank second to Admiral Dewey.

The terms dictated to President McKinley are said to have been announced and promulgated under the supervision of General Felix Augustus and contained among other matters the charge that Sampson had commuted irregular accounts in 1891 while superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis. Another part of the story is that the most bitter personal feud in the nation's history, therefore ends and that Schley will rank second to Admiral Dewey.

The special eight-page edition which was to have been published under the supervision of General Felix Augustus and contained among other matters the charge that Sampson had commuted irregular accounts in 1891 while superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis. Another part of the story is that the most bitter personal feud in the nation's history, therefore ends and that Schley will rank second to Admiral Dewey.

We heard a gentleman say the other day that less paint was used in Winnsboro than any place that he had ever seen. His statement was endorsed by a group present. It is always some comfort to know that there are others. We, therefore, take this from the Laurens County News, published at Laurens:

Some of these bright afternoons when out strolling look around you as you walk and what you do see, count the houses as you pass them and classify as you go. You will be surprised to know the number of houses whose owners are amply able to have them painted, which are being neglected. Years and years have passed and not a brush has touched them. Dust and cobwebs have accumulated and the places no longer look like a home. This is not as it should be. Our houses should be painted, nice picket fences put around the yards and grass and flowers planted. Parents how do you hope to keep your small sons and daughters off the streets when you let home seem so unattractive? To make a child love home that home should be attractive. Give the painters, carpenters and landscape gardeners a job—or do it yourself—and make the whole city look more attractive.

We cannot say that the children of Winnsboro do not love their homes, but it is a fact that Winnsboro needs paint.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children's white teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

The Republicans are following the lead of Mr. McKinley in his denunciation of the trusts. In Indiana in their convention, trusts are condemned, and in Ohio, Mr. McKinley's home State, the platform "insists that injurious combinations shall be forbidden and so-called trusts shall be so regulated from time to time, and be so restricted as to guarantee immunity from harmful monopoly and assure fair treatment and protection to all competing industries."

The number of Republican platforms that are opposing the trusts, show that there is a preconcerted movement to checkmate the Democrats on this issue. It is an anomaly for the Republican party whose paternal principles have been the veneration of trusts to condemn them. We would not have had any trusts if we had never had this party of high tariff and centralization of all forms. It has been the party of bounties and favored combinations. Nobody will believe that it is sincerely in earnest when it now pretends that it will destroy its own creatures. It is merely a little campaign thunder. The Republicans have found out that the Democratic position against trusts takes with the people.

It is one of the strangest of things that the press of the country, especially the metropolitan press, should be devoting column after column of space to the Dewey presidential and vice presidential movements. It cannot be that any man of ordinary sense seriously considers Admiral Dewey in connection with either place on any ticket. Then why all this discussion of an impossible thing, in advance of the silly season, too?—Charlotte Observer.

It is just a habit of the press never to drop a thing. It is a repetition of the never-ending Sampson-Schley controversy. If the press continues to talk about Dewey it will succeed in adding to his strength as a presidential candidate. Men of less prominence than Dewey have been made in politics merely because they were persistently advertised by newspapers. It is not necessary to speak favorably of such men, but a large class of people will be attracted towards them merely because the newspapers do frequently mention them. If obscure men are often made by persistent advertising, it should surprise no one that a man of Dewey's prominence should receive a great many votes through so much free advertisement.

THE News and Courier speaking of the value of advertising says: "Neither one insertion nor two will serve to attract customers, but regular notices, judiciously, temperately written, not protesting too much will draw and retain the buyers, building up one's business on a solid foundation, giving also a basis for extension and improvement—the ultimate design of all modern enterprise. The advantages of advertising being shown, we must understand what advertising is, not merely an announcement, a sign, as it were, of the business conducted, but the business itself placed in its best light." This is all true and good advice to advertisers. They would do well to follow it. It is not advertising simply to stick your name and kind of business in a newspaper. Advertising should be studied just as any other part of the business. Unless attention is given to it no returns need be expected.

It is reported that a tidal wave of Japanese is moving in this direction and the fear is expressed that it will cause a labor upheaval. Five thousand are said to be on the high sea and 25,000 more are to come. They will land in British Columbia and ship over the line. It is suggested that the United States and Canada take joint action at once to prevent the importation. Such action, it seems to us, would be a little embarrassing to Uncle Sam. Are not the Japs just as good as our fellow citizens, the Filipinos, with whom we are trying to associate through the mouth of the cannon?

Nothing more wholesome in politics has happened lately than turning out Quay from the Senate. The foundation for turning him out did not rest upon his character, but the people are to be congratulated that one less man of his type will be in the Senate. He represents the most corrupt kind of politics. It is true that he deserves some gratitude from the South on account of his stand against the force bill.

AND the war in the Philippines is not over. The news from Manila on April 22 was that the week just ended had been the bloodiest of the war. It was reported that "the week's work" had killed 1,000 insurgents," and that the insurgents "had been progressive in almost every province of Luzon." When the war started we said that it would not be surprising if it should last for ten years. It may turn out so.

WHAT a greedy world! England, France, Austria, Italy and Germany are all after Turkey, and the United States which is also in the grabbing game now, furnishes the pretext through their claim arising out of the Armenian massacres. It is a rough and tumble fight these days for territory.

QUESTION ANSWERED.
Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulated the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing surer for the matter with you. For sale by McMaster Co., druggists.

Dr. David Aiken has returned from a business trip to Georgia.

We are constantly urged to continue hammering on the building of a new cotton factory. Writing may excite interest, but it will not build a factory. If our people have become interested, then we would like to have some of them speak out. Our columns are open.

JENKINSVILLE JOTTINGS.

Not April showers, but floods we are having, and if the rains continue much longer arks and airships will be in requisition, for terra firma is by no means firm just now. When we read the accounts of suffering in the West though, our trials and discomforts dwindle into insignificance by comparison, and our hearts go out in sympathy to the inhabitants of the flooded sections, whose homes and property have been swept away by the angry waters. We are apprehending a freshet in Broad River.

Some cotton has been planted, much to the regret of the planters, since the heavy rains. Lowlands too wet for planting corn. Wheat and other small grain looks very well. Spring salad, asparagus, lettuce and radishes, onions too, of course can be furnished by some of our gardens now. Peas and beans looking well. Fruit promises to be abundant, and the peep, peep of the growing chicks cause us to anticipate spring chicken pie in the near future.

The young ladies from here, who have been teaching in other localities, are at home again, schools having closed.

The school here will close in two weeks with a picnic.

"For a week I lived on quinine, two succors of weak, enfeebled broth and a mustard plaster." So writes a brother who has recently been ill, and his experience has been shared by many whom the gripe has gripped during the prevailing epidemic. We have had some rather severe cases in this vicinity, but most of them are convalescing now. Dr. Scott has been kept quite busy. His practice is very extensive, and the telephone line now in course of erection, from Winnsboro to Alston, via Monticello, will be a great advantage to him and a convenience to his patients.

Rev E. A. McDowell has been quite sick, was not able to fill his appointments for several weeks.

Mr W B Yarborough has been appointed census enumerator for this town ship.

Candidates are showing their smiling faces among us occasionally, and we are expecting to have a lively summer of it in the way of picnics, &c. Campaign year, you know.

We hear that there are several applicants for the position of postmaster at Alston. Mr M D Spigner, lately deceased, had been in charge of the office for several years.

Mr Gus Rabb has recently sustained the loss of a horse and cow; the latter was struck by lightning, and several others were injured at the same time. We deeply sympathize with him.

Mr Willie Scott, a student of Furman University, and captain of the base ball team which recently won two match games in Charleston, called to see his parents at Monticello on his return to school.

Jenkinsville is looming up in business. We now have a first-class millinery here kept by the Misses Chappell. They have recently had an opening of which I will send an account later.

RIDGEWAY LOCALS.

There is an epidemic of gripe and roseola in our town and community; some member of almost every family has been sick, and in some instances the entire family; however no case has proved serious.

Mr G L Rosborough, who has been quite ill for the past few days, is able to go out again.

Mr Charles E and Miss Jennie C Thomas, who have been spending the winter in Riverside, California, came home yesterday.

Miss Bessie McMaster, of Winnsboro, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Stella Rosborough, of Augusta, Ga., spent a few days in town.

Rev and Mrs Turnipseed are visiting the parents of the latter in Greenwood. Mrs A L Ott and children are visiting relatives in Orangeburg. L. S. April 30, 1900.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or sediment of some kind indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also evidence of kidney trouble; the back is also a convincing proof that the kidneys are bad and are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, by mail, absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

A CONFEDERATE LIST.

Those Who Left Winnsboro and Vicinity for the C. S. A.

Mr. Editor: The following from an old friend (of Fairfield), rebel blood for more than a century and a quarter, and gallant Confederate soldier, Floyd Jackson, will be read with pleasure by all his friends and by many of the rising generation.

G. H. McM.

Tirzah, S. C., April 24, 1900.

G. H. McMaster, Esq.:

Dear Sir—Knowing the interest you have always taken in anything connected with the history of Winnsboro, I send you a paper I have had some time (since '61, I believe), and tell how I got it. At one of our reunions in Winnsboro, as there were so few town men in the procession, some one made the remark in Bill Williams' hearing that he was of the opinion that Winnsboro did but little in furnishing men to the Confederate army. This aroused Williams' ire, and so he made it his duty to assist him in making out a list of names of those from the town and near vicinity who were in the Confederate States army, who were residents when they enlisted. We did it entirely from memory and there are some omissions, particularly among the last class. It will be of little interest to any one now, but may be in the future, and I want to get it in some hands that will see better to its preservation than I can. You will notice that of the many who went out with the old Boys Guards that W. W. Ketchum is the only one now living in town, who from first to last was a member of that company. I give the commands in which they first went out, as far as known. Numbers were transferred. I also give those who were killed, died of wounds and died in service when known.

Hoping this will find you well and prospering in your old age, I am yours very respectfully,

W. F. Jackson.
